Wednesday, November 12, 2014: Fly Fishing the Surf In Southern California with Gary Bulla

We are fortunate to live on the edge of an abundant and diverse fishery known as the Southern California Bight. Bight refers to the sudden change in the coastline direction from north-south to west-east. The gorgeous beaches formed by this geographical anomaly have become a premier fly fishing destination.

At our November meeting, we will learn about reading this water, its currents and tides and the methods for casting and choosing rods and lines, leaders, and flies for catching a wide variety of fish. We will learn about the best SoCal locations and how to effectively roam the coastline of this accessible and yearlong fishery. Come to this meeting and you'll learn about the challenges of fly fishing this rare marine habitat and the opportunities that are available in our very own home waters.

As you will see, the perfect guide to show and explain all this is Gary Bulla. He will share his beautiful photographs of this unique terrain and its many fascinating facets, along with the knowledge he has gained during more than 30 years of exploring the surf.

Gary grew up on the beaches and waters of the southern California coast. From when Gary was a toddler, his father camped, hunted and fished with him. By his early 20s, Gary had learned to scuba dive and then free dive and spear fish in the Channel Islands and southern Mexico and was exposed to fly fishing while backpacking in the Sierra and living in the mountains of Colorado. By age 23, Gary had returned to the foothills of southern California to make his home.

In 1989, his friend Yvon Chouinard introduced him to the concept of casting a fly into the surf. Gary found that saltwater fly fishing perfectly combined his lifetime love for the ocean and his passion for fly fishing. In those days there was not a great deal of information about targeting Pacific saltwater species, but Corbina seemed to hold the possibility of becoming an exhilarating and challenging fish for southern California. So Gary began observing and experimenting on the shoreline. He spent many mornings and evenings patrolling the beaches, paddling the kelp beds in his kayak and developing flies and techniques for the salt. He combined his knowledge of the tides and beaches with his observations to understand how to catch not only corbina, but also halibut, yellowfin croaker, perch and striped bass. All these were found in the surf near Ventura and Santa Barbara. Today fly rods are a common sight on these beaches -- a dream come true for Gary.

Also, in 1989 Gary began accompanying his wife Theresa, a teacher of marine biology, on trips with middle school students to Baja's Magdalena Bay, Loreto and La Paz areas. He brought his fly rod and was astounded at the incredible fly fishing available so near to southern California. Thus began a second quest and more years of experimentation.

Today Gary teaches local surf and saltwater casting clinics, as well as guides clients in the surf. He has caught more than 150 saltwater species on the fly and has guided and fished the Channel Islands, Belize, North Carolina and the Bahamas. But his home waters are the California surfline, where he first wetted his line in the salt.

Idylwilde Flies signed Gary as one of their "Signature Tiers" and has been distributing his saltwater flies since 2008. With his "family" of captains and large groups of repeat clients/friends, Gary is constantly developing and tweaking new patterns and methods for the multitude of species in the salt. When he hosts his many trips, Gary coaches his clients and often fishes with them, constantly adding to his knowledge. Articles about his trips and his photos have appeared in Patagonia catalogs, California Fly Fisher, Fly Rod and Reel, The Drake, Saltwater Fly Fishing and Fly Fishing in Saltwaters.

His website is www.garybulla.com where he has an e-store for flies and an active discussion board on saltwater fly fishing.

Gary Bulla is one of the best speakers in the nation on salt water fly fishing—do not miss this very knowledgeable and dynamic speaker!
See you there.... And remember to pursue your fly fishing dreams.

Fishing Southern Utah

June 15-19 & September 21-25, 2015

June is dry fly time, September spawning colors time

You've heard me talk about Southern Utah. Here's your chance!
5 days of guided fishing at a quite reasonable rate with a wonderful guide!

Stream Keeper: John Williams 951-236-0862

Head Guide: Mike James, Quiet Fly Fisher, 200 N. Main St., PO Box 533, Loa, Utah, 84747, 435-616-2319

Cost: $900 to the guide plus tip, lodging and food. Contact John to make your reservations, a $200 Non-Refundable Deposit is required to hold your spot, make checks payable to Mike James and send to John Williams 19859 E. Calle Cadiz, Walnut, CA 91789

Tipping is considered normal on this trip.

Our maximum group size is six per session.

Lodging: We will be staying at the Mill Cabins; they have comfortable, cozy cabins and good rates. A cabin with two beds costs $50.00 per night. These cozy cabins are simple - just a bedroom, bathroom and a few extras. Make your reservation by calling Bruce Chappell (owner) at 435) 836-2426.

Meals: We will be eating breakfast on the way to the fly shop each morning and going to one of the local cafes for dinner. You'll need extra cash or credit card for this.

The drive to Loa, Utah area is approx. 9.5 hours you should arrive at least a day before we start fishing to acclimate to 7,000' altitude. I have cell reception in the area with AT&T, if on the mountain fishing I'll call you back when I get in reception. We are staying at 7,000' elevation and probably fishing from 7,500'-11,000' elevation. I would recommend getting a good rest the day before we get fishing with Mike James and his crew. Drink plenty of water to stay hydrated, the guide will have drinks available, don't be bashful, ask for them if you are thirsty. If hiking take the bottled water with you and or a water filtration bottle.

Have your rain gear and a couple of layers to keep you warm if the weather should change and get bad. I have been on Boulder Mountain with the weather beautiful and two hours later rain or hail. A word of warning, don't carry everything you own, pack light and smart, if you have questions please call me.

Gear:

- Waders and wading boots
 - A nine foot five or six weight rod will do fine with floating line (a second rod is optional for tight waters) 7 foot long approx., I carry an 11'-5wt. Switch rod as well, Optional.
 - Tippet sizes 3-5x, Leaders 9'-5x & 7'-5x
 - Have some split shot along to get your flies down if needed and a few strike indicators.
 - Rain Coat, cold weather coat & gloves
 - Packet of Kleenex if needed as toilet paper
 - Camera, Flashlight
 - Long sleeved shirt
 - Sun block, Chap stick
 - Sunglasses, reading glasses
 - Utah Fishing license can be purchased on line before the trip or at the market in Loa.
 - A day pack can be helpful to carry extra clothing, water, flies, and extra clothing.
 - Flies: Parachute Adams #16 & 18, Willie's Callibaetis Nymph #14, Elk Hair Caddis #16-18, Hoppers #6-10, Damsel fly adult #10, Damsel Fly Nymph #12-14, Red Copper John #14-18, Printz nymph #14, Black & Red Zebra Midges #16-20, M&M caddis #16-18, Black beetle #16, Black and Golden Stonefly nymph #8-10, #6-10 Cone head Streamers in Olive , Black & Brown, #14-16 Black and Red Zebra Midge.
 - These are suggestions; your guide will have flies at no charge while fishing.
- Your guide will tell you what to bring for the day's activities so have it in your vehicle at the fly shop in the mornings you fish.

Hot Creek Ranch July 10-13, 2015

Stream keeper: John Williams 951-236-0862 call if you have questions.

I take reservations at the January club meeting, you must be a club member to attend with a signed insurance form on file.

Hot Creek is a classic spring creek, Cold water seeps from eleven different fissure springs that make up the stream. Wild rainbow's and brown's are the main attraction that has drawn celebrities, statesmen and a group fly fisherman who love to fish the dry fly to trout with PhD's. Bring your best casting and a variety of small caddis, mayflies, and midges. Leave the stand over the fish method at home, they will teach you something if you listen and watch them. As Jim Edwards will show you, lying on your belly can be most effective at getting a close look at them and possibly catching a nice one. There are 9 fully outfitted cabins with refrigerator, microwave, utensils, stove/oven, and dishes. We try to put two to a cabin but with the popularity of this outing we occasionally put three to a cabin.

- Hot Creek is a private ranch and we are paying guests, please abide by all the ranch rules or you will be asked to leave.
- Check in time is 4:00 p.m. on July 10, 2015 and not before!
- Check out time is 12 noon on July 13, 2015 you must be out of the cabin by noon but you may fish the ranch the rest of the day if you so choose. It is customary to leave a $5 tip per person staying in the cabin for the cleaning staff.
- Dry fly fishing only, Catch and Release using barbless flies, No Wading.
- California fishing license required and the DFG checks occasionally.

- The ranch has 9 housekeeping cabins with complete kitchens that contain microwave, stove/oven, pots and pans, silverware, dishes, and BBQ grill outside. Bring your own food Friday night, Saturday breakfast and lunch, Sunday all meals, Monday breakfast and lunch.
- We will have a BBQ steak dinner on Saturday evening at 4:59 p.m. this will give us time for dinner and still time to catch the evening hatch or grab a cigar and a scotch on the porch. Everyone is invited who is staying on the ranch and Kevin and his wife Lisa “the ranch managers” are our guests for dinner. Please be on time, we will not wait for you! Please bring your own silverware, plate, knife, fork, beverage of choice from your own cabin and remember to return it where it belongs after dinner.
- Hot Creek Ranch website is www.hotcreekranch.com there is helpful information on the site.
- Productive flies on the ranch are: M&M caddis #16-18 tan, #10-14 hoppers, Parachute Adams #16-20, Brooks sprout midge #18-24, Black beetle #16, Red & black ant #18, Griffith gnat #20-22, CDC caddis #18, PMD #18-22, #16 Hot Creek Hot Butt. There is a fly shop on the ranch that is well equipped with flies, shirts terminal tackle, floatant.
- Equipment: 4-6 weight rods, afternoons tend to be windy, 9-15’ leader with 6x tippet works well.
- This is a demanding fishery that requires drag free drifts on a stream with many seams in the current. A helpful suggestion, practice you’re casting and mending on moving water prior to this outing. There are many nice fish and I want you to catch your share.
- If you should have any question about this outing or any fly fishing related item please feel free to call me, John Williams at 951-236-0862 my cell phone.

Fishing Reports

Lake Crowley Slam, October 9, 2014

Floyd Sabins

ffsabins@roadrunner.com

For the past few years my fishing and FFCOC activities were curtailed by health and family issues which have been resolved. In 2014 I made a trip to Nicaragua with Bob Marriott and three Eastern Sierra trips. This story describes my most recent trip.

A Slam at Lake Crowley means that you landed all three species (Brown, Cutthroat, and Rainbow) on the same day. My partner and I both did slams on successive days in August. To prove it was no fluke, we both slammed again in October and have photos to document the event. On some days we landed larger fish (Rainbows and Browns up to 24 inches) that were not part of a Slam. We fished with Tom Loe of Sierra Drifters out of Mammoth Lakes. Some FFCOC members will remember Tom's talk on drifting the Owens River using his "Strip and Dip" method. On Spring Break my grandson Spencer and I used the method with Tom on the Lower Owens with good results, but that is another story.

Returning to October at Crowley we did nymph fishing with Tom's "Undercator" floats, which are a big improvement over the "Thing-a-My-Bobs". There were good chironomid hatches, so we used two-fly rigs with size 18 and 20 crystal emergers and midge pupae on 5X tippet, which is a challenge with 6 and 7 pound angry leapers. We fished in 9 to 11 foot water depths, which requires a strong hook-set when the undercator bobs down. We had good catches at the North Arm, off Layton Springs, Alligator Point, and the Drop-off at Six Bays. I have fished Crowley for a number of years and the water level is the lowest that I have seen, but the fishing is very good. The water is cooling and the fall turnover is beginning with some algae bloom. The weed beds around the shore are gone. Special regulations began in August, which we catch-and-release fly fishers love. The boat launch closes October 30, but the lake is open for tubing and shore fishing until November 15.

Over the years I have fished with scores of guides in many countries, but none meet the standards of Sierra Drifters. The boats are well-powered and clean with dry lockers for your jackets. They provide reels, Sage rods, flies, and leaders. The guides even take photos and post them on your email. All you need to bring is your license and personal gear. They also have a great website <sierradrifters.com>.

During the fall and winter I plan to explore non-Crowley venues in the Eastern Sierras.

B - Brown

C - Cutthroat

D - Floyd babying a big fish on 5x tippet.

Lake Crowley Slam (three species landed in one day) on October 9, 2014 with Tom Loe of Sierra Drifters. We fished with a pair of size 18 and 20 Chironomid pupae and emergers (various patterns) and Tom Loe's undercator float with 5X tippet on 9-foot Sage 6 rods. We fished in 9 to 10 foot water depths, which required a strong hook set when the undercator dipped. These are not the largest fish we landed during our three days, but they were all landed on the same morning at the Drop-Off offshore from Six Bays. Photos by Tom Loe.

Fly Tying

Flies That Keep On Giving

By John Williams

Southern Utah has been my passion for a while and experimenting with different flies has been an obsession as well. Our guide Mike James said to me, do you know how I broke my net? I responded, how. He said it was on the last person who tried to second guess his fly selection. I watch many tiers and come away with a few great patterns. This one worked extremely well on the high mountain lakes of Boulder Mountain, Utah for Brookies and Grayling. Thank you Davie McPhil, He uses this on Scottish lakes.

Electric Blue Buzzer

Hook:	Daiichi 1160 #10-14
Thread:	UTC 140 Black
Blue Rib:	Veevus H10 holo tinsel M Blue
Shell Back:	Mirage Tinsel Large Opal
Wing Pads:	Yellow Goose Biots
Body Coating:	Loon UV Clear Fly Finish Thin

Start your thread at the eye and tie in the rib as you make touching wraps down into the bend and upward to the thorax region let the rib hang to the rear at the bend. With the thread at the thorax rib the fly barber pole style up to the thorax and tie off with a couple of wraps. Run the thread to the eye and tie in the Mirage tinsel and wrap the thread back to the bottom side of the thorax. Tie in a yellow goose biot on either side of the thorax at the rear letting them hang to the rear. Wrap the thread forward to the eye and fold the mirage forward and tying in with a couple of wraps of thread. Fold the goose biots forward making them cross on top of the thorax and tie in with a couple of wraps of thread and whip finish. Coat the fly entirely with UV finish and set either with a UV flashlight or outdoors using the sun.

Enjoy this one, it's a keeper,
John

Flies That Keep On Giving

By John Williams

Always on the look out for productive flies. I subscribe to several fly tying site's, one very good one is MidCurrent. Just before our trip to the Big Horn River I saw this fly and had to give it a try. The first two days of our trip I was reluctant to try it, but on the third day gave it a good workout with it trailing a streamer as I tossed toward the bank and swam it to the boat. WOW, it works well. It's not your usual natural materials fly. I didn't have the hook or slotted bead so I improvised and this is what I produced, the photo is of a fly that has been fished well.

Let me introduce you to the Squirminator

Hook: Orvis Tactical Heavyweight Barbless Hook #12
Thread: UTC 70 Fluorescent Orange
Bead: 1/8" gold tungsten bead
Tail: Googly worm or ball toy tentacle in Yellow
Egg center: Bright Orange dubbing
Egg body: Glo bug yarn, Egg color

Place the bead on the hook small hole first. Cut a tentacle from a toy and slide it onto the hook piercing the tentacle in the center of the end and threading it on the hook a short way, place a smear of super glue on the shank and slide it 1/3 of the way up the shank. Start your thread behind the bead and wrap rearward to the base of the tail and back up to the middle of the shank. Dub a small ball of orange dubbing in the middle to form an egg center. Cut a piece of goo bug yarn about 3/8" long and divide it into half using only half of the fibers for this fly and save the rest for the next one. Make a dubbing loop and spread and insert the fibers into the loop, close the loop and make several clockwise turns of your thread to secure the fibers. Wrap the fibers round your egg center stroking the fibers back as you wrap. Tie off behind the eye and fill the gap with several wraps to form a hot spot. Add a smear of super glue to your thread wraps and your done.

Not just a toy, but serious catching,
John

2014 Fall Fly Tying Classes

The fly fishers Club of Orange County fly tying classes at the REI/Tustin store are in full swing and going strong. It is almost like having the gang back together. We have returning students and brand new fly tyers. Each session seems to end as soon as it starts. This must mean that a good time is being had by all. I can't say enough about the enthusiasm that is coming from the beginning fly tyers. They are eager to learn and are turning out to be quick studies. They are working diligently on their homework so they can show off their accomplishments the next tying session. Richard Fanning and Lyman Kennedy are once again full time instructors for the Intermediate/Advanced students. From what I've seen of the flies that they are instructing their students on, makes me want to take their class. I would like to give a great big "Thank You" to both of them. Without these very talented teachers, our fly tying classes would not be as successful as they are. If you think you would like to become a fly tyer or improve your existing skills, please keep in touch with your FFCOC newsletter. We are already lining up the Spring 2015 session in March and April. I will advertise the exact dates of these classes in the newsletter. In the meantime, we are staying very busy with new flies to tie each week. Below is one of our tying classes hard at work. See you all at our November Club dinner at the Phoenix Club in Anaheim on November 12, 2014.

Membership

2015 Membership Cost Increase to $45:

FFCOC annual membership fees will be increasing to $45 effective the 2015 membership drive. Please note, our membership fees have not been increased since the mid 80's and this increase will ensure that the club will continue to provide exceptional speakers, classes, club outings and events.

Hey Club Members it's time to renew your membership for the 2015 club year. So to encourage you to renew early I have an incentive for you. This year's membership raffle drive will offer three different opportunities to enter the membership drive. This is how it will work.

If you renew at the October meeting you will receive five raffle tickets (which I understand there were a few of you that I owe five tickets).

If you renew your membership at the November meeting you will receive three raffle tickets

If you renew your membership at the December meeting you will receive two raffle ticket.

Online renewal is available, so if you renew online you will receive the same opportunity for tickets by renewing online. However, you have to attend the meetings to receive your raffle tickets.

If you mail in your renewal, you will receive one ticket. Again, you must attend the meeting to collect your raffle tickets.

Winning ticket will take home a lovely handcrafted prize that will be donated from several of our artistic club members. Again, this membership drive is all about attendance so you must be at the January 2015 meeting to win a prize.
